TO KNOW HARRY WINSTON IS TO KNOW BEAUTIFUL DIAMONDS

It is far less said that no two diamonds are alike, and for each one it is unique in its own right.

Identifying beauty in diamonds is a matter of an expert's knowledge and judgment. While gemologists have been trained to help us understand quality, in a way that is not only scientific but also artistic. It is the art of selecting the perfect diamond, one that is not only beautiful but also meaningful. The ability to distinguish between good quality diamonds and those that are not is a skill that is not only scientific but also artistic. It is the art of selecting the perfect diamond, one that is not only beautiful but also meaningful. THE FOUR 'C'S'

Many times we hear people talk about the four 'C's' when it comes to diamonds. What are they? Color, Clarity, Cut, and Carat. These four factors are what determine the quality and value of a diamond. Understanding these factors is essential for anyone looking to purchase a diamond. Each factor plays a role in determining the overall quality and value of the stone. Color refers to the absence of color in a diamond. Clarity refers to the absence of inclusions and blemishes. Cut refers to the way the diamond is faceted. Carat refers to the weight of the diamond.

COLOR
Diamonds are graded by the GIA on a color scale of D through Z, based on the degree to which the diamond appears colorless. While most diamonds appear colorless, variety of display body perceptible use of color.

CLARITY
The higher a diamond's clarity, the more valuable it is. Clarity refers to the absence of inclusions and blemishes. The higher the clarity, the more valuable the diamond. Clarity is measured on a scale from I1 to I3, with I1 being the highest and I3 being the lowest. The higher the clarity, the more valuable the diamond.

CUT
A well-cut diamond will reflect light in a way that is not only beautiful but also meaningful. The cut of a diamond is what determines how well it will reflect light. A well-cut diamond will reflect light in a way that is not only beautiful but also meaningful. The cut of a diamond is what determines how well it will reflect light.

CARAT
Larger diamonds are considered more valuable than smaller ones. Carat refers to the weight of the diamond. The higher the carat weight, the more valuable the diamond. Carat is measured on a scale from 0.01 to 10.00, with 1.00 being the highest and 0.01 being the lowest. The higher the carat weight, the more valuable the diamond.
